In the latest Brighteon Broadcast News report, journalist Mike Adams discussed several important topics, including an extended interview with Michael Yon and the Senate voting to advance a $95 billion aid package for various countries (Israel, Ukraine, Taiwan). The aid package includes $60 billion for Ukraine, $14 billion for Israel, and $9 billion for humanitarian assistance in Gaza. Adams criticized the allocation of funds, stating that there is no money for America's border while other countries receive billions.

Additionally, Adams reported on the ongoing conflict between Israel and Palestine, with Israel bombing Rafah, a city in southern Gaza. The attack has resulted in 50 deaths and raised concerns about a potential war between Israel and Egypt. Adams also discussed the United Kingdom maritime trade operations' interception of two missiles fired at a vessel in the Red Sea.

Australian Senator David Shoebridge called for a ceasefire in Gaza and questioned Australia's role in exporting weapons to Israel. Adams emphasized that the United States government under Biden and Blinken continues to provide bombs to Israel, making Joe Biden and Antony Blinken international war criminals in his opinion.

A nightmare for Gazans who were told to flee to the south of Gaza

In a recent interview, concerns have been raised regarding Israel's future due to its ongoing conflict with Palestine. The humanitarian crisis in Gaza is expected to worsen as expanded air and ground operations into Rafah will lead to a "nightmare" for the residents of the region. Aid organization Mercy Corps has urged for a sustained ceasefire, along with access to increased aid in order to prevent further suffering.

Additionally, the US Homeland Security Secretary, Alejandro Mayorkas, has been criticized for not taking responsibility for the ongoing border crisis. Critics argue that the Biden administration should be held accountable for its policies and actions regarding immigration. The situation at the border has led to an increase in invasion camps in countries like Panama, which are funded in part by the US government.

Furthermore, the interview highlights the hypocrisy of liberal Americans who support open borders but remain silent on the bombing of Gazans. The ongoing conflict between Israel and Palestine has led to a downgrade in Israel's credit rating by Moody's, which could have significant implications for the country's economy and debt issuance.

The recent destruction of the Nord Stream pipelines has raised concerns about the economic consequences for Germany, as well as the potential impact on global trade with Russia. This situation echoes the devastation caused by Hitler during World War II, which left a lasting impact on Germany's reputation and economy.

The US supplies weapons that are fueling Israel's escalation toward World War III

In recent months, Israel has faced criticism for its actions in Gaza, with some drawing comparisons to the atrocities committed during the Holocaust. As tensions continue to escalate between Israel and other nations, there are growing concerns about the potential for World War III. The United States, particularly under the Biden administration, has been accused of supporting Israel's actions, further fueling the conflict.

The ongoing crisis in Ukraine has also raised questions about the stability of global economies and the role of the United States in international affairs. With billions of dollars being funneled into foreign aid packages for countries like Israel, Taiwan, and Ukraine, there are concerns that this could lead to further economic instability within the United States.

In light of these issues, it is essential to consider the potential consequences of continued global conflicts on both Israel and the United States. As tensions rise and economies falter, it is crucial for nations to find a path towards peace and stability in order to avoid further destruction and economic collapse.

In addition to the geopolitical challenges facing Israel and the United States, there are also concerns about the state of their respective economies. The ongoing crisis at the southern border has led to increased calls for action from both political leaders and citizens alike. With billions of dollars being spent on foreign aid packages, many argue that this money would be better spent addressing domestic issues such as infrastructure, education, and healthcare.

To help address these concerns, Mike Adams encourages people to prepare for potential economic collapse by stocking up on essential items like food, backup communications and real assets like gold and silver.

In conclusion, the ongoing global conflicts and economic instability pose significant challenges for both Israel and the United States. As tensions continue to escalate, it is essential for nations to find a path towards peace and stability in order to avoid further destruction and economic collapse. In the meantime, individuals can prepare for potential crises by stocking up on essential items and considering alternative forms of currency like gold and silver to help protect themselves from dollar currency risk.
